Hi everyone

The new Management Committee met early last month and one of the first actions was to invite Tuesday library assistant and the photographer for our funeral directors' record, Christine Meehan, to join the committee to fill the final vacancy. I am pleased to report that Christine agreed to participate so welcome to Christine and all the new Management Committee members.

Our annual "Thank You" function for volunteers will again take the form of an afternoon tea on Saturday 29 November at the GSQ Research Centre commencing at 2.30 pm. Dr Jennifer Harrison, our patron, will be attending so I hope all our volunteers can attend. For any volunteers who can't attend, please accept GSQ's sincere thanks for your help over the last year.

While the Education program for 2015 is being developed, there are still two education events remaining in 2014. Shauna Hicks will present on Ancestors in Asylums: Why You Should Look! Please note it is not on the third Saturday but is on the 22 November due to the G20 being on in the second half of November. GSQ will also be closed on the public holiday for the G20, which is Friday 14th November, and over that weekend.

If you are new to GSQ, the final New Members' Meeting for the year is on Saturday 6 December commencing at 10am. This event aims to provide those who are new to GSQ with further information on how GSQ can assist you with your family history, with an emphasis on the services we provide. So put this date in your diary for December.

The indexing group have completed several new Funeral Directors' Indexes CDs and books which will be available for sale in November. These are Cannon & Cripps from 1967 – 1990; two different Funerals of Distinction CDs; one for cards from 1977-1985 and further records from 1980-1991, and finally John Hislop records from 1970 – 1991. If you have a brickwall surrounding a Queensland death, don't forget to have a look at the funeral directors' records.

That is all for this month. Happy researching

Marg Doherty, President

From Your Management Committee

November already? Where has the year gone? If you are like me the year has flown – yes, I know that time hasn't changed but the busier I get the more time seem to disappear. And that is without the engrossing hours I have spent on Trove!

Have you thought of any family history research that you might accomplish over the holiday season? Perhaps you will have some spare time during this period that you don't have over the rest of the year. I have recently been organising my personal research and have found good guidance on organising my research on Cyndi's List -

<http://www.cyndislist.com/organizing/> - a virtual treasure chest of resources. One excellent resource is from In a Pile or a File -

<http://www.timefortnow.com/genealogy/book/preface/> - has several easy to read chapters about organising our research. My New Year's resolution already made!

GSQ will be closed from Saturday 20th December until Tuesday 13th January but may be open the week after New Year depending on availability of volunteers. There will be further announcements in the December eNews.

By the way, are you following the GSQ blog – Tapping your roots @GSQ? There is a new blog post every Monday and over the blog's three months existence all have been extremely interesting. Follow the blog on <http://gsqld.blogspot.com.au/> or click on the B icon at the top right-hand side of the GSQ website. You may also click on the light blue T for Twitter or the dark blue F for Facebook to follow other GSQ social media sites.

Take care

Helen Connor, Hon. Secretary

GSQ and #socialmedia

Your GSQ has taken some steps to enter the world of social media. Did you know you can have your 'genie-fix' at the click of a mouse or the swipe of a screen?

The Society has its own Facebook page. Content includes event notices, links to blogs and websites with a genealogical flavour and posts regarding new and diverse resources just waiting for you to use them to break down that frustrating brickwall.

To follow GSQ on Twitter, simply use the search term @GSQPresident. For notices regarding upcoming events and responses to events members have attended, use the hashtag #GSQEvents. If you're looking specifically for information about the Society's resources and library holdings, search #GSQResources. As a Society we follow libraries, archives, museums, prominent genealogists and FHSs in Australia and across the world. With the centenary commemorations of WWI being uppermost in the minds of many family historians, we are also following military museums worldwide. Linking in with GSQ on Twitter is a great way to be made quickly aware of the fabulous work these organisations are undertaking and the wonderful resources at their disposal. Because it is possible to attach photographs to Tweets, this forum is a helpful way of obtaining images that will support your own research.

GSQ's blogsite, Tapping Your Roots @GSQ, includes posts on a variety of topics of interest to genealogists. An opportunity to comment (provide feedback) on each post is available and these 'conversations' can help you come to grips with a subject you want to know more about. It's a great forum for exchanging ideas. Regular contributors are Helen Smith, Pauline Williams, Tiggy Johnson and Lyndall Maag. New posts are released on Monday every week and during those months when there is a fifth Monday, a guest blogger will post.

To access these exciting new facilities, go to the GSQ website at www.gsq.org.au and click on the relevant icon on the top righthand corner of the screen. Then, 'Like' us on Facebook and 'Follow' GSQ's blog and Twitter account. If you would like one of the bloggers to address a particular subject for you, or for us to follow particular users on Facebook or Twitter, send your request to info@gsq.org.au. It's a very exciting time to be part of genealogical social media and there is phenomenal opportunity to strategically plan your research, access records from across the world and break down brickwalls. I look forward to seeing you in #socialmedia land soon.

FORENSIC GENEALOGY

with Colleen Fitzpatrick in Brisbane

Forensic science is fascinating, Genealogy is fun, Forensic genealogy is fascinating fun

What is Forensic Genealogy? Forensic Genealogy emphasises the creative parts of a genealogical investigation over the mechanics of a search. Forensic scientists and genealogists share the same goal: to find out who was who, and who did what, and when. Forensic genealogy, however, includes the analysis of photographs, the mining of databases, and the analysis of DNA to reveal family history.

More details to follow; mark the date in your diary now.

Interest Groups

English/Irish Group

The English/Irish group will meet again on the first Sunday in December. The doors of GSQ will open at 9.30 a.m. and the library will be available for research until 2.30 p.m. The formal part of the day commences at 10.30 a.m. and on 7 December we will have presentations on the county of Lancashire (in England) and on "Debtor's Prisons", by two group members.

All members of GSQ are welcome to join us (for a gold coin donation) when we learn more about family history research in England, Ireland and Wales. See you at GSQ on 7 December, our last meeting for 2014. Bring along your lunch and enjoy some interesting conversations.

Scandinavian Group

Our next meeting is 16 November, which is in the middle of the G20 conference, and we could see Fisher Street affected by road closures and police motorcades. We usually have Scandinavian Food at the November meeting, because it is the last meeting of the year. We have in some years had our November meeting at the IKEA café or the Pancake Manor. IKEA is at Springwood, and should be far enough away from the G20 summit.

Writing Your Family History Group

The Writing Group ended 2014 with guest speaker Peter Ludlow talking about his books, many of which concern Moreton Bay and relate the stories of those who live (and lived) there. A shared lunch was a great way to cap off an interesting year. The Writing Group next meets in February 2015. Program details and dates will be published in eNews. More details from convenor, Pauline Williams on pstirland@hotmail.com

Military Interest Group

The Military Group will meet on Saturday 29 November at 10am. This will be the final meeting for 2014 so members are asked to bring something for a Christmas break up. The November meeting will plan activities for 2015. There will also be a short presentation Member, Louise Coman will speak on Monash- The Outsider who won a war which is on the Battle of Hamel and Monash's role on the Western Front leading to victory and the Armistice. The group is finalising the Military Interest Register which will list the soldiers/nurses who individual members are researching. New members are always welcome.

German Interest Group

Here we are, fast approaching the end of the year, and our last meeting will be held on the 30 November 10am-2.30pm. 10-12md is research time. We have a brief meeting at 12md before we all enjoy a little Christmas lunch and cheer from the plates of goodies we all bring along. This year has been an interesting one to say the least, and we hope it will continue to show those of you with German Ancestors, that there is a group working hard to give you an opportunity to learn from those we invite to speak, and from each other.

I would like to thank Lesley Roebig for her wonderful work as editor, plus Indexing and support- also to Helen Connor for her help and advice.

Convict Connections Group

The next meeting for the Convict Connections Group is on 14 December 2014. Remember anyone is welcome to come along even if you do not have a convict ancestor (thus not a member of the Australian Aristocracy as we say!)

Family Tree Maker Users' Group

The FTM Users Group meets at the GSQ Library on Sunday 9 November from 10.30am until midday. This networking group can help beginners and assist more experienced members overcome any FTM problems they may face. People with laptops should bring them along so the participants can help solve your particular problem(s). We provide support for earlier FTM versions as well as the current 2014 Version. Those with the Mac version are also welcome. Advance notice to the convenor on mcfadzen@bigpond.net.au of your problem(s) will assist in setting the Agenda.

Legacy Family Tree Users' Group

Next meeting will be Sunday November 9, from 1pm to 2:30pm We had a lively meeting in September so don't forget to come along with your questions.

Don't forget to watch the webinars that Legacy provides. Checkout <http://www.legacyfamilytree.com/webinars.asp#archives> If you are having any family tree program problems before then please email GSQ and we will try to answer your questions.

We will review our latest acquisitions, some new websites and the latest resources available to assist with Scottish research. Our first meeting for 2015 is the Hogmanay meeting on the 4th January and members should bring a 'plate'.
